Generals: Iraq Near Civil War

Commanders say sectarian violence could deepen crisis

WASHINGTON | Two top Pentagon commanders said Thursday that spiraling violence in Baghdad could propel Iraq into outright civil war, using a politically loaded term that the Bush administration has long avoided.

The generals said they believe a full-scale civil war is unlikely. Even so, their comments to Congress cast the war in more somber hues than the administration usually uses, and further dampened lawmakers' hopes that troops would begin returning home in substantial numbers in time for this fall's elections.

"I believe that the sectarian violence is probably as bad as I have seen it," Gen. John Abizaid, the top U.S. commander in the Middle East, told the Senate Armed Services Committee. Gen. Peter Pace, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said, "We do have the possibility of that devolving into civil war."

Asked whether the United States would continue to have a military mission in Iraq in the event that a major civil war broke out, Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld declined to respond directly, saying he didn't want to give the impression that he presumed there would be a civil war. He said the question must ultimately be handled by the Iraqis. (AP)

You Ain't Nothin' But a Crazy Guard Dog

A guard dog has ripped apart a collection of rare teddy bears, including one once owned by Elvis Presley, during a rampage at a Wells, England, children's museum. "He just went berserk," said Daniel Medley, general manager of the Wookey Hole Caves, where hundreds of bears were chewed up Tuesday night by the 6-year-old Doberman pinscher named Barney. The dog ripped the head off a brown stuffed bear once owned by the young Presley during the attack, leaving fluffy stuffing and bits of bears' limbs and heads on the museum floor. (AP)

EVIDENCE

We'll Blow This Case Wide Open

A Bangladesh court was thrown into a panic Wednesday when police produced five live bombs as exhibits during a trial, the BBC reported. Police alleged that the men on trial had been found with explosives in December, and brought them in as evidence—without defusing them first. When a security force officer realized the mistake, he told court officials the explosives could go off at any time; the judge immediately adjourned the case and evacuated the courtroom until the bombs were removed. Q: What's the best way to get people to cool down with recycled water?

A: Get coffee-shop waitresses dressed in maid costumes to sprinkle water over the hot pavement in Tokyo, as these women did on Tuesday. Using maids has proved to be hugely successful in attracting attention among the city's plentiful "otaku" — or hardcore anime, comics and video fans (Why is this not shocking?) — with at least 50 cafes, bars and restaurants using the theme to attract business. Which Wheel Do You Want Me to Hold?

A Carlisle, Pa., man charged with drunken driving from the passenger's seat has asked a judge to throw out statements he made to police. Derek Randall Pittman had a blood-alcohol level of 0.23 percent when he was arrested, officials said. Police pulled the car over Dec. 26 after it was swerving. The driver was holding a sandwich; Pittman told the trooper he held the wheel while the driver took a bite. (AP)

Blaze Rages in Eskimo Town, Forcing 250 to Evacuate

A school in a remote Eskimo village caught fire Thursday and the blaze quickly grew out of control, engulfing several homes and buildings and forcing 250 people to flee. No injuries were reported among the 1,100 residents of Hooper Bay, where the roaring fire continued to threaten homes. "There are no roads or a formal fire department with big shiny red fire engines here," said Alaska Public Safety Commissioner Bill Tandeske. Heat Wave Rages, Relief Expected

Weather blamed in 14 deaths this week, but could relent on Friday

NEW YORK | The sweltering heat that was confirmed in at least 14 deaths in the East and Midwest this week was not unusual for Iman Arbab.

"For me, 100 degrees — it's normal," said Arbab, 57, a native of Sudan who sells newspapers from a crate outside Pennsylvania Station in Manhattan.

But even he admitted he was getting a little fed up.

"When you're young, you don't feel it," Arbab said Thursday morning. "When you get old, you feel it."

DeLay's Name to Stay on Texas Ballot

Judge won't let state GOP replace indicted lawmaker for fall vote

AUSTIN, TEXAS | A federal appeals court panel on Thursday refused to let Texas Republicans replace Tom DeLay's name on the November congressional ballot.

The finding upheld a July ruling by a federal judge that the ballot must list DeLay, who won a March primary before resigning from Congress on June 9. He now lives in Virginia but is awaiting trial in Texas state court on money laundering and conspiracy charges alleging that illegal corporate cash helped pay for legislative campaigns in 2002.

Republicans want to name another nominee to face Democrat Nick Lampson in November. Democrats sued to keep DeLay on the ballot. Keeping him on the ballot gives them an easier race and bolsters their attempts to make the indicted former House majority leader their symbol for claims of Republican corruption.

Thursday's ruling said that GOP state chairwoman Tina Benkiser acted unconstitutionally when she tried to remove DeLay as the party nominee because he had moved.

While the U.S. Constitution requires a candidate to live in-state, the question is where he is residing on Election Day, not now, 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judges said.

Lieberman Trailing Lamont in Polls

Anti-war challenger gains on Conn. senator before Tuesday primary

HARTFORD, CONN. | Millionaire businessman Ned Lamont opened a double-digit lead over veteran Sen. Joe Lieberman less than a week before Connecticut's Democratic primary, raising the possibility that the three-term senator may have to run as an independent in November, a new poll released Thursday shows.

Lamont, a political novice, had support from 54 percent of likely Democratic voters in the Quinnipiac University poll, while Lieberman had support from 41 percent of voters. The sampling error margin was 3 percentage points.

A similar survey July 20 showed Lamont with a slight advantage for the first time in the campaign.

"Senator Lieberman's campaign bus seems to be stuck in reverse," poll director Douglas Schwartz said. "Despite visits from former President Bill Clinton and other big-name Democrats, Lieberman has not been able to stem the tide to Lamont."

MEET AND GREET: Democratic Sen. Joe Lieberman, center, and his wife, Hadassah, visit a restaurant in West Hartford, Conn., on Thursday.

Lieberman, 64, one of the Senate's most well-known Democrats and his party's nominee for vice president in 2000, has been harshly criticized on liberal political Internet blogs and in Connecticut for his support of the Iraq war and his perceived closeness with President Bush.

"The fact is, I'm about a lot more than one issue, and the future of the people of Connecticut is about a lot more than one issue," Lieberman said Thursday during a campaign stop in West Hartford.

Lamont, 52, who owns a successful cable television firm, has been able to tap into rank-and-file Democratic voters' frustration with Lieberman, as well as his personal wealth, contributing $3 million to his campaign.

"It shows that people are hearing the message and like the message of change and hope," said Liz Dupont-Diehl, a spokeswoman for the Lamont campaign.

The poll, however, indicated that Lamont's support is in large part a backlash: 65 percent of Lamont supporters said their vote is mainly against Lieberman. Schwartz said he had never seen a race in which an incumbent has stirred up such negativity within his own party.

Lieberman said the poll showed much work must be done to win Tuesday's primary. SUSAN HAIGH (AP)

Battle Looming In Senate About Minimum Wage

WASHINGTON | Senators plowed into a bruising political battle on Thursday over a combined minimum-wage increase and estate tax cut as both sides counted votes and predicted a close call.

Republicans needed 60 votes to advance their bill, which links a $2.10 increase in the $5.15 federal minimum wage to an estate tax cut. For Republicans, the combination could defuse a Democratic campaign issue while promoting GOP priorities.

Republicans were dealt a blow, however, when two Democrats, Sens. Maria Cantwell and Patty Murray of Washington, announced they planned to oppose the GOP's bill.

The legislation also revives popular tax breaks that expired last year. They include deductions for state sales taxes and college tuition, along with a research and development credit for business.

Fierce Fighting Rages on in Mideast

New Hezbollah rocket attacks kill 8 Israelis; airstrikes hit Beirut

JERUSALEM | A massive wave of guerrilla rockets pounded northern Israel in a matter of minutes Thursday, killing eight people hours before Hezbollah's leader offered to stop the attacks if Israel ends its airstrikes. With four soldiers killed in Lebanon, it was the deadliest day for Israel in its two-front war.

Two huge explosions rocked Beirut early Friday, in what local media said were new Israeli airstrikes on Hezbollah strongholds south of the city. Israeli artillery shells earlier soared into the hills of southern Lebanon, sometimes as many as 15 a minute.

To Israel's south, in the second front of its offensive against Islamic militants, Israel sent dozens of tanks into the Gaza Strip as aircraft fired at clusters of militants. The heavy clashes killed eight Palestinians, including an 8-year-old boy.

Despite Hezbollah leader Sheik Hassan Nasrallah's offer and continuing diplomatic efforts to broker a cease-fire, the Israeli army prepared to push up to Lebanon's Litani River as part of its campaign to force the guerrillas away from the border and make room for a planned international force to patrol the area.

punishing onslaught both on the ground and from the air, Hezbollah has shown surprising strength and has found its support in Lebanon — and among the larger Arab world — vastly bolstered.

Jordan's King Abdullah II warned that the fighting was causing a backlash against moderate Arab leaders and was strengthening the very radicals it was intended to destroy. "The Arab people see Hezbollah as a hero because it's fighting Israel's aggression," he said.

QANA DEATHS REVISITED

→ Many news organizations initially reported 54 or more civilians, including women and children, died in an Israeli airstrike on the Lebanese village of Qana. But a re-examination Thursday indicated there were 28 deaths.

→ Human Rights Watch said it discovered the discrepancy as part of a larger probe of civilian deaths in Lebanon. Some additional bodies may still be buried in the rubble, Lebanese officials said Thursday. (AP)

Despite Israel's efforts to crush Hezbollah, the guerrillas launched at least 200 rockets into northern Israel on Thursday.

At least 100 of them rained down within a half-hour period Thursday, sending Israelis fleeing into shelters and killing eight people. Five Lebanese civilians were killed in Thursday's fighting, Lebanese officials said. RAVI NESSMAN (AP)

U.K. Envoy Warns of Iraqi Civil War

LONDON | A confidential report from Britain's outgoing ambassador to Iraq warned the country is sliding toward civil war and is likely to divide eventually along ethnic lines, according to a news report Thursday.

William Patey, who left his diplomatic post in Baghdad last week, predicted in the document that the situation in Iraq could remain volatile for the next decade, the British Broadcasting Corp. said.

The diplomat sent the memo to Prime Minister Tony Blair, Foreign Secretary Margaret Beckett and key legislators, BBC reported.

"The prospect of a low-intensity civil war and a de facto division of Iraq is probably more likely at this stage than a successful and substantial transition to a stable democracy," the BBC quoted Patey's memo as saying.

Patey

Patey's diplomatic cable claims that Iraq's "position is not hopeless," but warns that the country is likely to remain "messy and difficult" for the next five to 10 years, the BBC said. (AP)

U.N. Council Working on New Mideast Measure

UNITED NATIONS | Under intense international pressure to stop the Israeli-Hezbollah fighting, France and the U.S. stepped up negotiations Thursday on a resolution calling for an immediate cessation of hostilities and the setting of conditions for a lasting peace between Israel and Lebanon.

France, which has led efforts for a diplomatic solution, circulated a revised draft of the resolution to all Security Council members Wednesday night. It would be the first of two resolutions aimed at achieving a permanent cease-fire and long-term solution to the conflict.

British Prime Minister Tony Blair said he hopes to see a resolution "within the next few days."

Since fighting began on July 12, the Security Council has failed to take any action to stop it, primarily because of opposition from the U.S., Israel's closest ally. The U.S. wants any cease-fire to be part of a package of steps, including the deployment of an international peacekeeping force and measures to tackle Hezbollah's disarmament. (AP)

Car Blast Kills 21 Afghan Civilians

Four Canadian troops die in fresh attacks blamed on the Taliban

KANDAHAR, AFGHANISTAN | Four Canadian soldiers were killed and 10 wounded Thursday in militant attacks and 21 Afghan civilians died in a suicide car bombing, the latest barrage of violence to herald NATO's new security mission in southern Afghanistan, officials said.

Suspected Taliban fighters firing rocket-propelled grenades from a school killed three NATO soldiers and wounded six near the village of Pashmul, west of Kandahar city, according to a NATO statement. Canada's military spokesman in Ottawa, Navy Lt. John Nethercott, confirmed the dead and wounded were Canadians.

Hours earlier, two roadside bombs planted on a highway by suspected Taliban militants, also near Kandahar, killed one Canadian soldier and wounded four others, said Maj. Scott Lundy, a spokesman for the Canadian military.

Afghan civilians look at the wreckage of a bombed vehicle near Kandahar.

Seven foreign soldiers have been killed since the changeover on Sunday, as an 8,000-strong force of NATO troops has assumed command across volatile southern provinces from a U.S.-led coalition.

The Taliban militia has stepped up attacks this year, sparking intense fighting with foreign and Afghan forces.

In Thursday's deadliest attack, a suicide car bomber caused a huge explosion in a crowded market in Panjwayi, a town about 15 miles from Kandahar, killing 21 civilians and wounding 13. Police blamed the Taliban. NOOR KHAN (AP)

AOL Plans to Cut Up to 5,000 Jobs

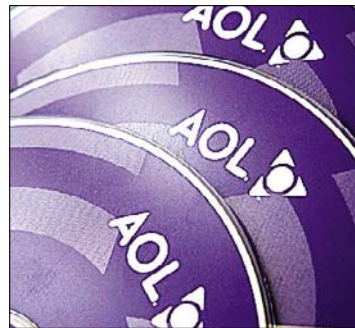

Company will trim a quarter of its work force in strategy shift

NEW YORK | AOL said Thursday it expects to drop as many as 5,000 employees, or a quarter of its global work force, within six months as the company restructures its business to draw more online advertising dollars.

The announcement came a day after the Time Warner Inc. unit said it would no longer charge high-speed Internet customers for e-mail and other services, in hopes of preventing their defection to rivals like Yahoo Inc., Google Inc. and Microsoft Corp.

An unknown number of European employees will still have jobs, but with a different company, as AOL LLC looks to shed its Internet access businesses in France, Germany and the United Kingdom. AOL currently has 3,000 access employees in Europe.

Layoffs had been anticipated. In announcing AOL's strategy shift Wednesday, Time Warner said it expected to spend $250 million to $350 million through 2007 to implement the changes, about half of that for employee severance.

AOL currently employs 19,000 around the world, about 5,000 in Northern Virginia where the company has its headquarters.

The company did not say where the job cuts will take place, adding that most of the individual employees likely will be notified in late September or early October.

Time Warner and AOL executives also said they expected to save more than $1 billion by the end of 2007 by cutting marketing and other costs. The cuts were necessary to avoid major hits in AOL's profitability as high-speed subscribers drop paid accounts. (AP)

Retailers' Sales Rise 3.5% Amid Summer Heat Wave

Worried retailers got a reprieve in July, scoring solid sales gains as searing heat in much of the country sent consumers back into the stores in search of summer clothes. But the outlook for the back-to-school season remained uncertain as higher gasoline prices and rising interest rates are still expected to challenge shoppers. The International Council of Shopping Centers-UBS sales tally rose 3.5 percent, above the 2.5 percent estimate and better than the 2.6 percent pace posted in June. (AP)

Ford Recalls 1.2M Trucks, SUVs, Vans Due to Fire Risk

Ford Motor Co., already reeling from business setbacks, recalled 1.2 million trucks, sport utility vehicles and vans Thursday amid concerns about potential engine fires. Ford said the recall was tied to the speed control deactivation switch system, which could corrode over time, overheat and ignite. The recall was the latest setback for the No. 2 U.S. automaker, which said late Wednesday that its second-quarter loss more than doubled from what it previously reported because of higher-than-expected pension costs. Respite of lower 90s expected after streak of record temperatures

BALTIMORE | Electricity usage hit record highs, municipalities tried to protect elderly residents and tourists sought out air-conditioned attractions as a heat wave that has baked the mid-Atlantic region extended to a fourth day Thursday.

The region was eagerly anticipating a break, however, with temperatures on Friday expected to top out in the low 90s.

"It's hard to call that refreshing, but it is going to be nice having a little cooldown," said James Brotherton, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service.

High temperatures Thursday reached a record 101 degrees at Reagan National Airport, a record-tying 100 at Baltimore-Washington International Thurgood Marshall Airport and a record-tying 99 at Dulles International Airport. (AP)

Study Warns of Crowding

Northern Virginia to see surge in students by 2010, report finds

WASHINGTON | Fast-growing counties in outer northern Virginia will be coping with tens of thousands of additional students by 2010, according to a new study of birth rates and Census data.

The study by the University of Virginia's Weldon Cooper Center shows that 48,400 more students will attend schools in Loudoun, Prince William, Spotsylvania and Stafford counties. In addition, Prince William likely will surpass Virginia Beach as the state's second-largest school district by fall 2007, the report shows.

"These poor planners in Loudoun and Prince William, they just have to build schools like crazy," said Michael Spar, a Weldon Cooper research associate who conducted the study. "There's only so many kids you can put into trailers before you bite the bullet and build more schools."

In Prince William, officials are worried about the growth's impact on instruction. Building materials have become pricier — which can affect expenditures on curriculum initiatives and personnel. With a land squeeze, officials are looking into how much classroom space can be added to existing schools. (AP)

WASHINGTON Officials: Delays and Higher Costs Likely for New Center

Government auditors are warning further delays and higher costs are likely for the Congressional Visitors Center, already $200 million over budget and about two years behind schedule. Construction on the 580,000-square-foot structure was delayed earlier this month when a problem with the center's fire-protection system was discovered, officials said. The Architect of the Capitol testified to a Congress subcommittee on Wednesday that the problem could be resolved quickly and center would be open for business by next summer. (AP)

WASHINGTON Wilson Bridge Closed After Suspicious Device is Found

Authorities closed Interstate 95 at the Woodrow Wilson Bridge after a suspicious device was found

Thursday in the Potomac River. The hourlong closing, which began at 7:15 a.m., caused traffic to back up in both directions. The suspicious item was a weather-monitoring device; construction crews found the device and were alarmed because it appeared to have batteries and attached wires, officials said. (AP)

Green's the New Black

Eco-friendly fashion goes chic — and the industry is loving it

FASHION | Green fashion used to mean itchy hemp sweaters, saggy tie-dyed tunics and a palette of cream, beige, gray and ... gray. Earth friendly? Sure. Stylish?

Do you even need to ask?

"It had more to do with tree huggers," says Claire Brooks, president of brand consulting company Model People. "People wearing sandals, stuff like that."

But environmentally friendly clothing has done a dumpy-to-dazzling about-face, with runway accolades, media attention and celeb fans serving to all but cement its high-style status. There's nothing fashion people love like a good makeover, and green, it seems, is this year's Cinderella.

Organic cotton used to be the provenance of T-shirts and tote bags. Now, it's being snipped into slouchy jeans and crisp, tailored shirts by Loomstate, a hip, New York-based company headed by designer Rogan Gregory.

Bamboo has also joined the ritzy ranks. Panda Snack is one of several companies turning the wild and woody plant into sleek polos, hoodies and tees for men and women.

Thrift stores have long been an option for those concerned about textile waste. And if you don't care to sift through the Salvation Army bargain bin, let some enterprising designer do the heavy lifting for you. "Repurposed" designs, vintage clothes cut up and crafted into new styles, have become a big business.

Just ask Julia Grieve. The founder of Preloved, a Toronto-based company whose repurposed clothes are sold in the District at Nana, says her company recycled approximately 20,000 sweaters and 8,000 pairs of jeans to produce its fall 2006 collection.

"When I started this business, I did not set out to be an environmentalist," Grieve says. "[But] it's impossible to ignore the benefits that we are offering."

Unsung Designers offers similar benefits on a smaller scale. The Adams Morgan-based company, owned by Grace Wang and Alishia Frey, stocks several designers who repurpose clothes to make everything from tie-neck blouses to funky suede handbags.

"I think it's a reaction to everything being over-processed, over-done, mass-produced," Frey says. "People are trying to go back to basics."

And she doesn't mean white pocket tees. For a certain shopper, Angela Johnson's bustle skirt, crafted from scraps of stretch wool and lace and available at Unsung Designers for $104, is basic.

"When people buy a brand," says Brooks, "they're trying to tell a story about themselves: 'This is who I am and what I value.'"

It comes as no surprise, then, that many eco-conscious shoppers want to buy from the company that does it all: makes organic cotton T-shirts, yes, but also pays its workers $15 an hour, subsidizes health care and peddles fair-trade java in the cafeteria.

It's easy enough to trust the 20-something design student in her Columbia Heights studio, fashioning 80s-inspired tank dresses out of thrift-store T-shirts. What about the Gaps and Wal-Marts of the world?

"When it's small companies, producers and designers doing this, they have a lot of credibility," says Brooks. "The American consumer is suspicious of big companies."

Still, at some point, if the green movement is to significantly alter apparel industry practices, if organic cotton and bamboo are to all but replace conventional cotton and polyester, then bigger companies will need to play a leading role.

"For certain people, it'll be a trend for a few years," Gregory says. "But we're not going to have a choice in a few years."

Second in Command

Before thinking Super Bowl, the 'Skins must test their backup QB

REDSKINS | The hype is real. You can hear it in their voices.

The Redskins went from surprise wild card qualifier to paper giants in one offseason.

You may have already drunk the spiked burgundy Gatorade. But before you buy those nonrefundable tickets to Miami for the Super Bowl, you need to find out one thing: Can Jason Campbell play?

If the aging Mark Brunell misses any serious time, Campbell's bound to get a shot.

Brunell has been on the NFL's injury report dozens of times over the past few seasons. He sprained his MCL in last year's week-16 win over the Giants and didn't look the same in the Skins' two playoff games.

Brunell's a warrior, the unquestioned offensive leader and Washington's best signal-caller. But his importance makes his health Washington's biggest liability and makes Campbell the team's biggest question mark in the preseason.

The Redskins traded up in last year's draft to get Jason Campbell, but he has yet to take a single NFL snap.

2 THE NUMBER OF professional seasons, out of the 14 he's spent in the NFL, in which quarterback Mark Brunell has started every game. If Brunell gets injured this year, the Redskins could turn to second-year QB Jason Campbell.

Head coach Joe Gibbs says the second-year player from Auburn will get plenty of snaps in Al Saunders' new offense this preseason, starting with a scrimmage against the Ravens on Saturday at FedEx Field.

"As a quarterback, it takes a lot to get comfortable," Gibbs said. "We're going to play him a lot [during the preseason], and he's got to prove it on the field."

Campbell, the 25th selection in the 2005 draft, didn't see the field in his first season in Washington. He's currently third on the depth chart behind former Kansas City backup Todd Collins, who was signed in the offseason in part because of his knowledge of Saunders' system.

Teammates praise Campbell's progress. Brunell and Gibbs both talked this week about Campbell's exemplary offseason work ethic, while tight end Chris Cooley said Campbell is learning pocket patience instead of instinctually running when receivers aren't open.

For his part, Campbell deflects questions about his position on the depth chart and properly walks the line between saying he's itching to play and acknowledging his chance will come.

But if pressed into service this year, will he be ready?

"I'm pretty sure the coaches would change the playbook around to what you know best," Campbell said. "At the same time, I would be very confident and poised in what I think I can do." ERIC BRANDNER

Creator of one of the world's most popular investment tools explains how almost any investor can follow the proven path to price gains in thousands of stocks

By Dean Jordan

Wizetrade® is a unique and powerful desktop tool that helps investors identify stocks with solid momentum. It may be the best thing to come out of Texas since oil.

George Thompson, the creator of Wizetrade®, is bringing his free Wizetrade® preview workshop to our area next week, and we took this opportunity to ask George what makes Wizetrade® and his free workshop so popular.

Q: George, you've been called "the investor's Thomas Edison." How did that start?

George: I think it's because Edison patented the ticker tape, making it possible for investors almost anywhere to follow stock prices without being on the exchange floor. It was liberating. A true turning point.

And now, Wizetrade® makes it possible to go beyond price information and pinpoint moneymaking trends as they're happening. Like the ticker tape, it's a revolutionary empowerment.

Q: Exactly how does Wizetrade® empower investors?

George: The golden rule to savvy investing is, "Buy low. Sell high." But of course, you can never know exactly when that is. So I tweaked the golden rule. To make money you must... Buy when the price trend turns up. Sell when the price trend turns down. And with Wizetrade®, you know when this turning point happens. In short, Wizetrade® helps you follow the new golden rule to making money in stocks.

Q: How does Wizetrade® identify a killer trend in the making?

George: By measuring the buying and selling pressure exerted on a stock as investors seek to either get in or out of a position.

Wizetrade® shows you the price trend as it forms, live in the market. When you follow the buying and selling pressure exerted on a stock, you can have a strategy to ride the surges and avoid the declines. And that's what successful investing is all about. It's how thousands of investors make money in the market.

Q: Can you give me an example?

George: Absolutely. Gildan Activewear was trading at $13.82 when Wizetrade® turned green, and was still green at $45.44 — giving investors a 228% gain.

Tim Participacoes SA was trading at $15.98 when Wizetrade® turned green. It was still green at $35.20 for a 120% return. I can give you examples until the ice caps melt.

Q: What do you mean by "Wizetrade® turned green"?

George: Wizetrade® is really easy to use. Your computer screen will have lights that represent time intervals like long-term and short-term. When the lights are green, buying pressure has set a stock's price in an uptrend for that time period. A red light means the stock is in a downtrend.

Q: Making money can be that simple?

George: Yes. One of our youngest Wizetraders®, Christian Powers, produced a 355% return in his portfolio when he was just 12 years old. He followed the Wizetrade® lights — and he produced greener returns than most mutual fund managers. Of course, children should have adult supervision.

Q: How much time does it take to use Wizetrade®?

George: Only a few minutes. You can literally turn a coffee break into dollars. Keep it simple. Keep it profitable. That's the objective of using Wizetrade®. At the free workshop, you'll see how easy it can be to use.

Q: At the workshop, will investors be able to see what Wizetrade® has to reveal about stocks they own?

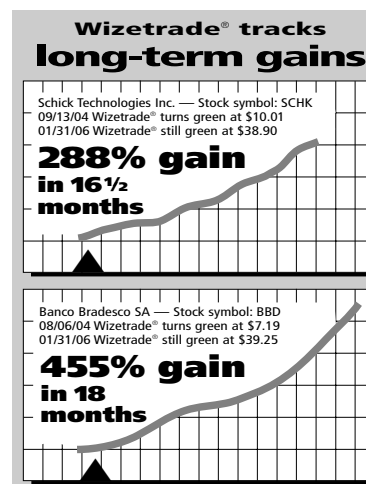

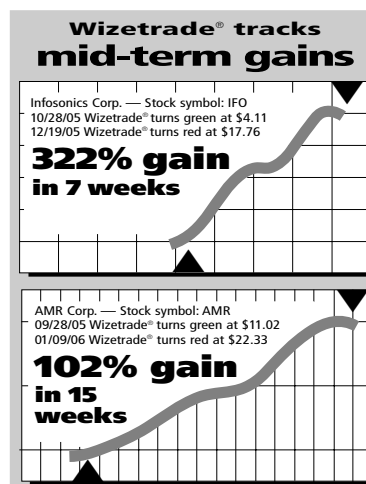

George: Absolutely. You'll see if the Wizetrade® lights are green or red. I've had countless people say, "George, your workshop saved my portfolio." They had no idea their stocks were locked in a downtrend with not enough buying pressure to reverse it.

Q: What else could the workshop reveal?

George: You may discover this year's breakout stock. In the 30 months following our mention of Immucor at a workshop, it rose 1,750%.

Q: How is it possible to make money in any market, up or down?

George: No matter what the general market is doing, some stocks will rise — and they'll rise faster than the market. Wizetrade® helps you find stocks that are creating their own upward trend. Wizetrade® is all about having a solid investment strategy — plus the tool to keep your strategy firmly in place.

Graphs shown are artist renderings and not depictions of actual Wizetrade® charts.

"I was up $5,000 in two days." — Neil Friess, Florida

"My best trade so far has been around $10,000 in one day!" — Jim Sielecki, Ohio

Q: What is the secret to great returns?

George: Follow the trend. It's truly the yellow brick road for investors.

Q: What makes a truly great stock?

George: A truly great trend. Knowing how powerful the price trend is... that's the secret to great investing. And Wizetrade® measures the strength of the trend.

Q: What about the fundamentals?

George: Fundamentals like P/E ratio — even solid buy recommendations from stock analysts — do not determine a stock's price. This information can trap investors into holding a stock as the price falls. The Wizetrade® lights turned red on Enron when insiders and stock analysts were still saying it was a "buy."

Q: George, why do you offer the free workshop?

George: People can see Wizetrade® work its magic live. Mention any stock you own or are even thinking of buying, and we'll run it through Wizetrade®. In about three seconds you'll know if it's a winner or a loser. Wizetrade® can help anybody who has a goal of making serious money in stocks, and the workshop lets you go for a test-drive.

Q: Who should attend the free workshop?

George: To start, baby boomers who need money to retire. And members of Generation X who missed the great Wall Street bull market of the 1990s.

But really, Wizetrade® empowers all investors. Just ask yourself if you want to make money. If your answer is "yes," come to the workshop. It's free.

All-Star Game Worth Hype

Instead of gimmicks, MLS draws interest with London's Chelsea

UNITED | Slam dunk contests, home run derbies, rookie games and most recently, championship series home field advantage to the winner: Organizers have come up with all kinds of gimmicks to try to liven up the all-star games.

But for the most part, they remain somewhat anticlimactic, as the athletes do their best to avoid two things: getting injured and playing defense.

Three years ago, Major League Soccer realized it was in a unique position to inject some interest into a tired tradition. It cut the number of all-stars in half and put them up against Mexican power Chivas de Guadalajara in LA. The result was a hard-fought game played in front of a boisterous, sell-out crowd.

The league knew it was onto something, and invited England's Fulham to Columbus last year, where the MLS stars crushed the Premier League side, 4-1. Now comes the biggest test of all: London's Chelsea, a team so good it has World Cup players on its bench. The game is Saturday evening in Chicago.

"We could do something with our all-star game that no other sport could do: make it a really meaningful and competitive game," MLS Facundo Erpen was a late addition to the All-Star team, giving D.C. eight players.

Deputy Commissioner Ivan Gazidis said. "Our players are really excited by the opportunity and recognize what a major opportunity it is to prove themselves against the best in the world."

The hosts' desire to pull the upset is part of the attraction for the English champions, who know they won't be facing just another European team preparing for its regular season.

"The pace of the game is very high," said Chelsea Coach Jose Mourinho, whose team came from behind to beat DC United, 2-1, last summer. "By the physical point of view, they look, always, very, very sharp, and the matches are really competitive and enthusiastic."

Tennis 'Savior' Is Back to Coaching

Brad Gilbert takes Scotland's 19-year-old Murray under his wing

TENNIS | Brad Gilbert insists he is no savior. But in the eyes of British tennis fans, he might not have a choice.

Last month, Gilbert was hired by the Lawn Tennis Association to coach Scotland's 19-year-old star Andy Murray and to help the LTA develop more young players.

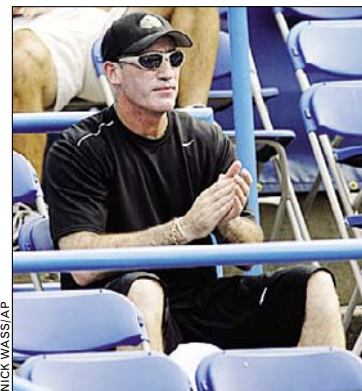

Though it will require a lot more work than his former job as an analyst for ESPN, Gilbert said he is ready for the challenge.

"It's something I really enjoy doing, and something I missed," Gilbert said.

Although Gilbert has only been working with Murray for a week now, he already likes what he sees.

"He's a great kid, a really bright kid for 19," Gilbert said. "I think he's got a lot of talent."

With that talent, though, has come the glaring spotlight that the British media cast on stars in any sport. It can be tough on anyone, as athletes from Tim Henman to David Beckham can attest, but Gilbert said he told Murray to "have fun with it."

Murray asked for at least a little bit of restraint, though.

"You almost feel like they expect a little bit too much too soon," Murray said. JONATHAN TANNENWALD

Tennis Lacks Enticing Stars

IF A TENNIS GREAT FALLS and no one cares, did it still happen?

Such is the case with Andre Agassi, who was gone in 60 minutes from the uber-hot Legg Mason Tennis Classic this week.

His loss, combined with Andy Roddick's withdrawal, has left the D.C. event with no juice heading into the weekend. Really, who's going to brave these temperature to watch James Blake or Lleyton Hewitt, assuming either makes Sunday's final?

In some ways, though, Washington is being treated to what tennis has become: a sport nobody notices unless a certain few players are on display.

It's a shame, too. Tennis is really fun to play. And there are great stars still playing it. They just happen to be really boring. Not boring like PBS, either, but boring like memorizing a dictionary.

Pete Sampras' long reign transitioned into Roger Federer's current run of domination. Both are among the best players ever, yet neither displays any charisma.

The best thing going for the men's game is Rafael Nadal, the colorful and talented Spaniard who needs Federer to come out of his shell to cement their rivalry.

"The best thing going for the men's game is Rafael Nadal."

Nap time's over. Tennis is in a full-blown coma. Think about that if you're dying in the heat at Carter Barron this weekend.

More Questions in D.C.

Keeping Soriano blurs the Nationals' plan to rebuild from scratch

NATIONALS | The climax of the Nationals' season came and passed Monday afternoon, when absolutely nothing happened.

All of that reaching for antacid in the clubhouse as fear of losing star left fielder Alfonso Soriano churned was for nothing. The Christmas-in-July scenario — in which an influx of young talent was slated to make up the core of the roster when the team moves out to Anacostia — never materialized.

And while lack of a deadline move may be fittingly anticlimactic in this season of transition, the club has to feel it's preparing for the future by the moves it didn't make. Right?

"I don't know what this team will look like in a week, but it's a pretty good team right now," right fielder Austin Kearns said last week.

While the Nationals could still make a trade, they'd need anyone they wanted to move to clear waivers first, which may not be so easy.

Third baseman Ryan Zimmerman impressed the Nats late in the season last year.

In the end, the unwittingly clairvoyant Kearns and fellow former Cincinnati regular Felipe Lopez were the Nationals' prize acquisitions in terms of building toward the future. Kearns can relax and concentrate on boosting his production, as opposed to the last few years, when an outfield logjam had him rotating in and out of the Reds' lineup. Still, the deadline left a lot more questions than answers:

1. Can they sign Soriano? It's unwise to keep him if you don't reasonably believe you can ink him to a multiyear extension or win the bidding war for him in the offseason.

2. They didn't address the pitching situation. What will they do now? Probably not much until the off-season. Washington did bring over reliever Ryan Wagner — a 24-year-old former first-round pick.

3. This may be the most important: Who can impress in September? Ryan Zimmerman put on a show at the end of the season last year and has turned himself into a National League Rookie of the Year candidate. Third baseman Kory Casto and first baseman Larry Broadway — the bats who have generated the most buzz in the minors — could get some plate appearances when the roster expands to 40 players.

Still, those at-bats would probably come at the expense of corner infielders Zimmerman and Nick Johnson, the Nats most productive hitters. ERIC BRANDNER

Landis' Lawyer Blames Bad Test On Dehydration

CYCLING | Dehydration is the latest possible reason offered for Tour de France winner Floyd Landis' elevated testosterone levels.

"Maybe a combination of dehydration, maximum effort," Jose Maria Buxeda, the cyclist's lawyer, commented Thursday after testing began on his backup sample.

Landis

That theory was flatly rejected by one of the world's top anti-doping officials.

"In 25 years of experience of testing ... such a huge increase in the level of testosterone cannot be accepted to come from any natural factors," said Prof. Christiane Ayotte, director of Montreal's anti-doping laboratory.

"If dehydration was the case, then marathon runners would be testing positive all the time."

Results from Landis' "B" sample are expected Saturday. (AP)

Divas at the Top

D.C.'s pro women's tackle team is finally Super Bowl-bound

WOMEN'S FOOTBALL | When she first tried out for the D.C. Divas six years ago, Donna Wilkinson had never played tackle football. Instead, she had only played softball, basketball and volleyball and had run cross country and track — and had played a few seasons on a local flag-football team.

The next thing “The Animal” knew, she was the team’s running back and had become the first back to rush for more than 1,000 yards in a single season of the National Women’s Football Association.

That’s how it happened for a lot of the members of the D.C. Divas, Washington’s professional women’s tackle-football team. Many of them had played some flag football (and almost all of them were phenomenal athletes), but some didn’t even know the rules when the team started.

Now, it’s one of the premier women’s football teams in the country. The Divas are undefeated this year, allowing just six points all year and averaging more than 48 per game during the regular season. On Saturday, they travel to Pittsburgh for the Super Bowl against the Oklahoma City Lightning.

“We’ve waited six years to play this football game,” said Nancy Buermeyer, an offensive lineman who has played with the team since its inception. “Everybody is incredibly excited to represent the league and the city in this game.”

Coach Ezra Cooper credits D.C.’s success to its commitment.

Six years ago, the team practiced just once a week and got pads just a week and a half before the first game. Now, it has two practices and one film session per week — on top of the players’ day jobs.

“There’s a seriousness about how we approached this year,” Buermeyer said. “The expectation is to get to this game and win this game.” IAN HERBERT (EXPRESS)

Mystics Get Playoff Ready

With Beard’s skill and Milton-Jones’ wisdom, team is thinking title

MYSTICS | After a one-year hiatus, the Washington Mystics find themselves back in the postseason. But with two weeks left in the regular season, the WNBA club is not content to rest on its laurels.

Although the team clinched a playoff spot in last Sunday’s victory over Charlotte, the Mystics picked up some momentum Tuesday in a 10-point win over the league-leading Los Angeles Sparks.

All-Star swingman Alana Beard and veteran forward DeLisha Milton-Jones have carried the Mystics on their backs and fueled the team’s march to the postseason.

“I think Alana Beard has played tremendous basketball this year compared to last year,” said Mystics coach Richie Adubato. “She was hurt all last year. She never really got into a groove the way she can play.”

Milton-Jones, meanwhile, has emerged as one of the team leaders since returning to the lineup. Behind Beard, she is second on the team in points per game and is third in rebounding.

“My passion is always the same no matter what’s going on,” said Milton-Jones. “This year, with the group that we have surrounding us, it’s a shared passion, and you can see it out on the floor. Everyone is putting their heart and soul in every possession out there. So when you have everyone together doing something like that, you’re bound to win games.”

With the former L.A. role player emerging as a legitimate scoring threat, opposing WNBA teams can ill-afford to focus solely on Beard. As they prepare for the playoffs, the Mystics know they also have a seasoned leader in Milton-Jones, who helped lead Los Angeles to a pair of WNBA championships.

The former Spark has instilled a winning attitude among her teammates. Now, she’s hoping to help lead the Mystics to the club’s first WNBA title. BRANDY L. SIMMS

Going Nowhere

'Talladega Nights' starts with a bang, but finally backfires

FILM | Ricky Bobby goes straight, then he turns left. Then he goes straight, then he turns left again.

Such is life in NASCAR, but it's also true of the auto racing comedy "Talladega Nights: The Ballad of Ricky Bobby." Like the sport it spoofs, the movie has its thrilling moments but mostly feels repetitive — it's constantly moving but never really goes anywhere.

It's also just too much like "Anchorman: The Legend of Ron Burgundy" — or at least it's trying to be, but comes up short.

Ferrell does seem intensely committed to making you believe that Ricky Bobby totally believes in himself — you can practically feel him vibrating with energy through the screen.

The movie itself, though, isn't nearly so focused.

It begins with Ricky realizing at a young age that he wants to go fast like his car-racing daddy, then quickly finds him as an adult at the top of the NASCAR heap. Jane HELMET HEAD: Will Ferrell plays a racing-star variation of his Ron Burgundy role.

Lynch plays his tough-love mama, with Gary Cole as the absent, alcoholic father whose love and approval

Ricky still seeks.

Ricky owes much of his success to his teammate and best friend since childhood, Cal Naughton (John C. Reilly), who always agrees to finish the race in second place. There's something sweetly delicate and sad about the way Cal simultaneously worships and resents Ricky; that's no surprise, though, since Reilly brings complexity to every supporting role he's in, even in a manic comedy like this.

Ricky has it all — the generically hot, blond wife (Leslie Bibb), the ostentatiously huge house (with oversized pickup trucks parked outside), even a couple of kids (with awesomely inspired first names).

But all that becomes jeopardized when a driver from the Formula One circuit bursts onto the NASCAR scene. Sacha Baron Cohen plays the role of the flamboyant Jean Girard the same way he inhabits the characters he's created: by immersing himself completely in it and making you believe you're watching a fully realized, screwed-up human being.

It would be too easy to say that "Talladega Nights" runs out of gas. But that's what happens. Ferrell's Ricky Bobby act grows old because there is simply no depth or nuance to this character. Then once his wife coldly leaves him, a new love interest (the adorable Amy Adams from "Junebug") comes out of nowhere and feels unfounded.

Worst of all, "Talladega Nights" just stops being funny.

Animals' Stand-Up Values

'Barnyard' teaches an unoriginal lesson in a fresh new way

FILM | It's hard enough for adults to tell the difference between these animated movies with talking animals, or insects, or cars. But for the kids who are supposed to be the target audience, this year's flock of such films has to be boggling their young minds.

Which, in this case, is a pity. Because "Barnyard: The Original Party Animals" actually has a clever concept (the animals walk upright and hang out like humans when the farmer isn't looking) and it handles such sensitive topics as birth and death with unexpected grace.

The all-star cast includes Kevin James, who's charismatic as the irresponsible Otis the bull; Courteney Cox as Daisy, a pregnant cow who's new to the farm; Wanda Sykes as Bessy, Daisy's sassy, protective friend; Danny Glover as Miles, the wise, old mule; and Sam Elliott as Ben, the noble steer who's in charge of the group.

Ben keeps trying to teach Otis that a strong man stands up for himself, but a stronger man stands up for others. Otis would rather hang out with his buddies.

All is well for a long time — when the farmer's away, the barnyard animals play. Then when a pack of coyotes attacks, Otis must reluctantly step up.

Not groundbreaking stuff, but it's smarter than the average bear. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

Stranger Than Truth

'The Night Listener' tunes in to the fluidity of nonfiction

FILM | Theoretically, "The Night Listener" couldn't be more relevant — even more so now than in 1992, when the events occurred that inspired Armistead Maupin's book and, in turn, Patrick Stettner's film.

Its ideas about fact vs. fiction, reality vs. imagination, and the blurry line in between have become all too familiar following the recent exposure and subsequent downfall of writers like James Frey.

So there should be a sense of urgency and immediacy to "The Night Listener," to the way in which it approaches the notion of truth and turns it into a matter of perspective demanding to be mulled over.

It does leave you guessing until the very end and even afterward. Who, if anyone, is losing their mind here? How much, and for how long?

TUNE IN, DROP OUT: Robin Williams with Bobby Cannavale in the idea-filled but ultimately unsatisfying "Night Listener."

What really happened?

In leaving those questions for the audience to internalize and interpret, Stettner as director and co-writer (with Maupin himself and Maupin's former partner, Terry Anderson) has crafted a sophisticated, grown-up mystery and a welcome challenge.

Maupin's partially autobiographical story begins life as a drama. New York talk radio host Gabriel Noone (Robin Williams) receives a book about a 14-year-old boy named Pete, detailing horrific physical and sexual abuse at the hands of his parents. The writer is the boy himself (Rory Culkin), and it's remarkably mature for someone his age.

Pete is a fan of Gabriel's show, listening from his bedroom in the house he shares in small-town Wisconsin with his adopted mother, Donna (Toni Collette). He's also dying of AIDS — at which point you're thinking, this is going to get heavy.

But then the film shifts gears when Gabriel begins a telephone friendship with Pete, and the two discover an unexpectedly easy rapport. Gabriel also talks frequently with Donna, who provides medical updates when Pete's condition deteriorates.

Culkin's performance is both spirited and heartfelt, while Collette is completely disarming as the woman who cares for him. But ultimately, the film is more admirable for what it tries to be than for what it actually achieves. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

Getting Dark in Here

A grim 'Descent' plumbs the depths of scare psychology

FILM | Something of a low-budget retread of the "Alien" films, the bloody fright flick "The Descent" still is far better than most of the cliché-ridden dreck that passes for horror. The story of six women who encounter carnivorous humanoids in an Appalachian cave system has some genuine cleverness in both its setup and the gory mayhem it unleashes.

Writer-director Neil Marshall offers a cast you can care about and believe in, compared with the mannequinlike teens generally lining up for slaughter in horror movies.

Sarah (Shauna Macdonald), who has suffered a horrible tragedy, and devoted pal Beth (Alex Reid) meet up with four others for a cave-exploring expedition in the middle of nowhere.

The adventure has been organized by Juno (Natalie Mendoza), a tough, natural leader. Joining the journey is Juno's protege Holly (Nora-Jane Noone), skilled Scandinavian climber Rebecca (Saskia Mulder) and Rebecca's half-sister, Sam (MyAnna Buring), a Swedish medical student studying in America.

The actresses establish an easy rapport from the start as old friends coming together with camaraderie — and hints of competitiveness — to help Sarah cope with her loss.

It turns out that the women have wandered into the feeding territory of cave-dwelling creatures. The beasts are fast, snarling and really enjoy the taste of female spelunkers. The women are separated both physically and psychologically as ugly revelations divide them.

What Marshall's saying about humanity is uncertain. Maybe, watch your back when you and your friends encounter vicious meat-eaters in enclosed spaces.

SHOW PLACE ARENA hosts the Maryland Music Festival and Crab Feast, a three-day classic funk fest kicking off with Switch, the minds behind falsetto-drenched hits such as "I Call Your Name," and the precursor to the group Debarge. Fans of the old school will also enjoy sets by the Brothers Johnson, New Birth, Slave and '80s freakettes the Mary Jane Girls. The party continues Saturday with the Stylistics, the Dramatics, the Chi-Lites and Peaches and Herb. On Sunday, War, the Zapp Band and the Ohio Players take the stage. Admission includes the all-you-can-eat crab feast and a three-day pass is $150.

tum. Singer/bassist/keyboardist Boris Skalsky has resurfaced with Dead Heart Bloom, which isn't a complete departure, but is more "atmospheric" than "rock." Hints of gloomy singer-songwriters such as Leonard Cohen and Nick Cave pepper DHB's debut CD. Don't expect tonight's performance at IOTA to be uplifting.

SATURDAY

GALLERY consistently brings impressive dance music nights to an attractive venue with great sound and no door silliness — it seems too good to be true! The District Soul crew spins house, drum 'n' bass and downtempo electronica, though this evening will likely be heavy on the big room beats.

DJ Enferno became the top turntablist in the country when he won the national title at the 2003 DMC DJ Championships and then came in second at the worldwide competition. His new weekly gig is at HOME. Enferno mixes hip-hop and old-school tracks, keeps the dance floor packed and slips in jaw-dropping breaks and transitions. The new "Home Ultra Bar" is free: Print a pass (dcclubbing.com/

SUNDAY

Two years after opening, THE WONDERLAND BALLROOM continues to get more popular. There's a lot to appreciate about Columbia Heights' feisty corner bar, including DJ Eurok's monthly gigs, the funky See You Next Tuesday party, live music, eclectic beers, the top-notch jukebox, vintage video games and oddball decor. One might wish the crowd tried a bit less to be hip, that the bartenders worked a little faster on weekends, or that Kenyon Street didn't feel as dark and sketchy when you walk from the Metro, but let's not dwell on that. Wonderland celebrates its second birthday today from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. with a slew of drink specials (including a High Life toast) and bands on both floors and on the dirt patch known as the beer garden. There's no cover.

ALL TUCKERED OUT: Ashanti and two other unlucky suckers are totally over the manipulations of John Tucker (Jesse Metcalfe), and enact a sadistic revenge.

Now Playing

THE ANT BULLY (PG, 80 minutes) Lucas Nickle (voice of Zach Tyler Eisen), a boy regularly creamed by tougher kids, now and then takes his rage out on the backyard anthill. Like the Old Testament God, he power-soaks their world, unleashing biblical torrents. A wizard figures out some chemical stuff capable of shrinkage on a massive scale, and hello, 15mm boy! Lucas sees the error of his ways, and soon, like them, he's a stalwart warrior. The movie is an epic adventure with a rigorously moral point of view. And technically, it is superb. (SH)

THE BREAK-UP (PG-13, 105 minutes) Vince Vaughn plays Gary, whose idea of a good time is shooting pool, watching the Cubs or firing up a video game while his girlfriend, Brooke (Jennifer Aniston), kvetches in the background. She's a humor-impaired gallery dealer with a sharp eye for Gary's domestic shortcomings. She may be right, but he's funny. And in comedy, serious loses and funny wins. (DT)

CARS (G, 116 minutes) Our hero, Lightning McQueen (Owen Wilson), is a sleek, red sportster on the racing circuit. He thinks quite highly of himself, particularly when he ties for the Piston Cup. This is the latest concoction from the geniuses at Pixar, and it's great fun, if well below the level of the first "Toy Story." (SH)

CAVITE (Unrated, 80 minutes) When Adam (Ian Gamazon, also a co-director) arrives in the Philippines to visit his family, a ringing cell phone in his bag welcomes him into hell. The voice at the other end, an Islamic radical leader, claims to have captured his mother and sister and orders him to follow his commands if he wants to see them alive. Clearly, the rebel leader wants to give Adam a religious reawakening. The movie can claim the romantic mantle of "guerrilla filmmaking," but its herky-jerky style, jump-cut editing and sustained takes soon wear out their welcome. (DT)

CLERKS II (R, 98 minutes) Dante and Randal are back and, aficionados will be gratified to learn, have grown up only slightly. This sequel finds them still bantering with customers, having movie geek-offs (the "Star Wars" vs. "Lord of the Rings" argument is priceless) and relishing crude innuendo. This is a lewd, lascivious, exhilaratingly life-affirming celebration of misfits and the misfits who love them. (AH)

CLICK (PG-13, 98 minutes) Adam Sandler, impersonating workaholic architect Michael Newman, acquires the ultimate in universal remotes — that is, a remote that controls the universe. He is able to fast forward through the boring or unpleasant parts of his life, pause to extract a petty revenge on oppressors and turn down the volume on arguments with his wife. It's a crass physical comedy of unrelenting irrelevance with a gag or two amid the many other examples of bad taste. (SH)

THE DA VINCI CODE (PG-13, 148 minutes) The most controversial thriller of the year turns out to be about as exciting as watching your parents play Sudoku. From a dispassionate Tom Hanks as symbolologist Robert Langdon to a script carefully written to mollify Christians already upset by the film's premise of a Jesus and

Mary Magdalene hook-up, this film is a bland piece of high-grade cheese. Still, the readers who gulped down Brown's thriller—in which a murder leads to revelations about a conspiracy in the Catholic church—will enjoy seeing his talky scavenger hunt re-enacted. (AH)

THE DEVIL WEARS PRADA (PG-13, 109 minutes) Meryl Streep plays Miranda Priestly, the driven, demanding editor in chief of Runway, the bible of New York fashion magazines. Unable to keep a decent assistant, Miranda's latest hire is Andy Sachs (Anne Hathaway), the smart girl who eschews fashion (at first) and arrives at her job at Runway head-to-toe out of place. She wants to be a serious writer. Can Andy survive a year of Miranda and, in return, win a recommendation that will get her in the door at any magazine in Manhattan? That, in essence, is the plot of the film. But Streep makes it work. (JENNIFER FREY)

AN INCONVENIENT TRUTH (PG, 100 minutes) This documentary by Davis Guggenheim follows Al Gore on his world tour, in which he warns audiences that humankind faces dire climatic consequences if it doesn't curb carbon dioxide emissions. We know what you're thinking, but as this surprisingly absorb-

DOUBLE THE ROCK

A Real Head Trip

THE FAUX DOCUMENTARY gets more sober treatment with "Brothers of the Head," a snapshot of a fictional 1970s punk band fronted by conjoined twins. The movie offers plenty of understated, twisted black humor. Yet directors Louis Pepe and Keith Fulton craft a predominantly bleak and often disturbing look at a creative duo who, despite physiological and emotional interdependence, also find themselves subtly at odds, with no way to escape each other. The movie follows the short career of Tom and Barry Howe (played by twins Harry and Luke Treadaway) who are joined at the lower chest and are groomed as a punk-rock novelty act. The siblings are rather bland early on, with the movie only picking up dramatic momentum in the final act as the story slips into musings about merged and secret identities. DAVID GERMAIN (AP) ing film shows, Gore's lectures are anything but dull. Although his onstage presentation tells us nothing new, it has a renewed potency, in light of growing scientific consensus about changing weather patterns. (DT)

JOHN TUCKER MUST DIE (PG-13, 87 minutes) This is one of those teen romantic comedies set at Britney Spears Memorial High School. When a putative misfit Kate (Brittany Snow) discovers that the BMOC—Big Manipulator of Cheerleaders—has been three-timing a bevy of precocious classmates. She leads the girls in a sadistic revenge spree. Despite doing its best to giggle, jiggle and ogle its way into a niche somewhere between "Heathers" and "American Pie," the movie becomes another forgettable pastiche of sight gags and pop-culture references. (AH)

LADY IN THE WATER (PG-13, 95 minutes) An otherworldly being called Story (Bryce Dallas Howard) emerges from a swimming pool behind a dingy apartment building and into the arms of its bewildered superintendent, Cleveland Heep (Paul Giamatti). Slowly he learns she's a "narf," a nymph who has come on land to find a man of deep significance. Cleveland, a guy who has resigned himself to a life plunging toilets, soon understands that he's at the beginning of something significant. But in a movie laden with symbolism, shamanism and mythic lore, director M. Night Shyamalan never forgets to have fun. (DT)

LITTLE MAN (PG-13, 98 minutes) This movie is about what you'd think a movie in which a man masquerades as a baby would be. Every orifice is covered, and the product of every orifice is also covered. The gimmick features Marlon Wayans' face computer-painted on various aspects of two little people named Linden Porco and Gabriel Pimental. Together they all play the jewel thief Calvin, who retends to be a baby in order to do reacquire some stolen goods. (SH)

MIAMI VICE (R, 130 minutes) Based on the '80s TV show about the stylized, musicalized, heavily armed, beautifully dressed icons Crockett and Tubbs, this movie seems to deal with multiple conspiracies involving the Aryan Brotherhood, a Colombian working out of Paraguay and a motley variety of Caribbean pond scum. The plot is largely meaningless, somewhere between "not a lot of plot" and "lots and lots of plot." But the worst news is that Colin Farrell and Jamie Foxx, replacing Don Johnson and Philip Michael Thomas in the key roles, don't hold a candle, a flashlight, a match to the original guys. (SH)

MONGOLIAN PING PONG (Unrated, 102 minutes) The people of the vast prairies of Mongolia may be hopelessly disconnected from industrial civilization, but they hardly notice it. But now and then, a little magic arrives. One day, an irrepressible little boy named Bilike finds a glowing pearl in the river. Granny quickly confirms that the object is of some holy significance. You and I would, of course, recognize the holy pearl as a ping-pong ball. And wouldn't that be our loss? We'd never share the joy that the mysterious arrival brings to Bilike and its galvanizing force on his small society. (SH)

MONSTER HOUSE (PG, 91 minutes) The animated story of a boy who discovers that the house across the way is a monster with a voracious appetite for children just his age, this movie is a grisly, often cynical piece of work whose joyless, aggressive spirit is made even less appealing by its soulless visual style. The story is by turns tiresome and terrifying, as the house comes to creepy life and its back story — gothic to the point of grotesqueness — is revealed. (AH)

ring performances are spot on. But after the shark-in-the-apartment scene, you should leave. What remains isn't merely stupid and pointless, it is, more unforgivably, laughless. (SH)

NACHO LIBRE (PG, 90 minutes) Jack Black, hiding behind a large, bad Mexican accent and a perm from hell, plays Ignacio, nicknamed Nacho, a monk in an orphanage whose job consists of fixing beans for the kids. Nacho secretly signs up for a wrestling match to raise money to buy lettuce for salads to relieve the monotony of the beans and perhaps give us sanctuary from the bean jokes. The movie then follows the secret career of Nacho Libre the wrestler, juxtaposing it with the banality of the monk Ignacio, who is the butt of all that witty monastery repartee. Is it funny? Now and then. Stupid? Very. Racist? Possibly. Ugly? Profoundly. Wild? Undeniably. Singular? Completely. (AH)

OVER THE HEDGE (PG, 87 minutes) The woodland creatures' habitat is losing ground to development. They've got no choice but to slip through the big hedge that rings the human world and make for the trash cans. Welcome to an amusing war between cute critters and crass consumers. Jokes are packed into every pixel of this movie, but there's such a knowing swagger about its comedy, there seems to be no innocence in the mix at all. (DT)

PIRATES OF THE CARIBBEAN: DEAD MAN'S CHEST (PG-13, 140 minutes) Will Turner (Orlando Bloom) is dispatched to steal Jack Sparrow's (Johnny Depp) mystical compass, which is believed to lead to the chest containing the soul of Davy Jones. And Elizabeth Swann (Keira Knightley) stows away as a man aboard Sparrow's ship to find fiancé Will, who's presumed lost. The movie's most entertaining feature is its computer-generated creations. But don't look for the collision of innocence and danger that made the first film so provocative. (DT)

A SCANNER DARKLY (R, 100 minutes) Richard Linklater's adaptation of Philip K. Dick's novel is in a special dimension. The director has re-rendered scenes with an electronic, watercolorish wash, transforming everything into a restive painting. Without its animation, this would have made a fine cautionary tale about drug addiction, paranoia and institutional treachery in a police state. But with a technique that turns the existing live action into a two-dimensional cartoon, the movie goes becomes its own living, breathing metaphor. (DT)

SCOOP (PG-13, 100 minutes) Woody Allen's latest movie opens on the River Styx, where today's boatload of souls is headed toward the far shore, among them one Joe Strombel, a Fleet Street news-hound. But on this slow boat to nowhere, Joe (Ian McShane) runs into the recently murdered secretary of an aristocratic bounder (Hugh Jackman) and learns that her employer is a serial killer horrifying London. It gets a lot lamer. This gives nobody any pleasure, but a truth must be faced: This is the worst movie Woody Allen has ever made. (SH)

SHADOWBOXER (R, 93 minutes) The central conceit of this movie is that middle-aged Rose (Helen Mirren) and her younger companion, Mikey (Cuba Gooding Jr.), are a mom-and-stepson killing team. When Rose finds herself face to face with a pregnant woman — another contract hit — she can't squeeze the trigger. She even ends up taking in the woman, and a family of two becomes four. The movie's interplay of graphic violence and coolspeak owe everything to the films of John Woo and Quentin Tarantino. But changing the gender only adds a skirt and a British accent. (DT)

STRANGERS WITH CANDY (R, 87 minutes) The very sight of ex-jailbird, ex-junkie prostitute Jerri Blank will set her cult fans giggling, and as played

THE AWAKENING

Sex Isn't Comedy

PARKER POSEY, THE QUEEN of the indies, is a stylish actress, but there's not much she can do with the flat, trite sex comedy "The Oh in Ohio," written by Adam Wierzbianski and directed by Billy Kent without a trace of imagination or originality. Posey's Priscilla is an elegant, hotshot Cleveland advertising executive whose frigidity, after a decade of marriage to bearded high school teacher Jack (Paul Rudd), has at last driven them apart. While Priscilla belatedly seeks help, leading to a variety of sexual adventures, Jack commences an affair with an 18-year-old student (Mischa Barton). There's no sense of pace or reality in this film, which seems a rehash of countless other movies. KEVIN THOMAS (LOS ANGELES TIMES) with sour-mouthed conviction by Amy Sedaris, she's so grotesquely unpalatable, well, she's a comedic scream. The movie, starring most of the original performers and a celebrity cast that includes Philip Seymour Hoffman and Sarah Jessica Parker, recounts the events that led to forty-something Jerri's return to high school. A long-winded, even tedious story becomes the focus, not the comedy. (DT)

SUPERMAN RETURNS (PG-13, 154 minutes) Superman's been gone for five years seeking remnants of Krypton among the stars. Satisfied, if melancholy that the old home orb is forever gone, he returns to Earth. Lois Lane (Kate Bosworth), for example, now has a child and a boyfriend, and Lex Luthor (Kevin Spacey) has just exited the slammer and started a new she-nanigan. It follows that Lois and Clark deal with buried feelings, and there's even time for Supe to remember his boyhood in Kansas. What's missing? Oh, right, a plot. But the bottom line is that Superman has returned, and again, you will believe that a man can fly and that virtue is its own reward. (SH)

WAIST DEEP (R, 97 minutes) Tyrese Gibson plays O2, an ex-con with two strikes against him, determined not to stumble into California's Three Strikes Law. This is not easy, given his propensity for violence. Still, he's got an incentive: his son, Junior (H. Hunter Hall), who has been kidnapped after a carjacking. O2 enlists the aid of Coco (Meagan Good), a hustler who may have had something to do with Junior's kidnapping. It's not a great movie but an interesting one, a combination of exploitative hood flick and meditation on trust and love. (TW)

WHO KILLED THE ELECTRIC CAR? (PG, 105 minutes) Writer-director Chris Paine examines the fate of General Motors' much-ballyhooed electric car, sold in California before being declared a failure and disappearing. A lot of the film is illuminating; a lot is pointless. But it does explore the nuances of the situation and quote people on both sides of the issue, even if you never doubt which of those two sides the film is on. (SH)

WONDROUS OBLIVION (Unrated, 106 minutes) The son of Holocaust refugees who have made a home in south London, 11-year-old David Wiseman (Sam Smith) has developed a passion for cricket. David's life changes for the better when Dennis Samuels (Delroy Lindo), his new Jamaican neighbor, sets up an enclosure

WORDPLAY (PG, 94 minutes) This hugely likeable documentary celebrates nerd-ism, languages, sportsmanlike conduct and smart people who love the New York Times crossword puzzle. The film also profiles brilliant but less well-known puzzle-solvers who compete in the annual American Crossword Puzzle

IMPOSSIBLE! It's true: "Scoop" is worse than "The Curse of the Jade Scorpion."

FOCUS FEATURES

ournament, puzzlemakers and Times puzzle editor Will Shortz. (JANE HORWITZ)

X-MEN: THE LAST STAND (PG-13, 104 minutes) The third installment in the series features the same core group of physically gifted mutants. A scientist discovers a cure for mutantism, leading each X to choose between retaining his or her often problematic powers or becoming human. Chock-full of references to Nazi eugenics, the civil and disability rights movements and even the abortion wars, the film suggests that the personal is always political. But director Brett Ratner makes a hash of the story and characters. (SH)

YOU, ME AND DUPREE (PG-13, 108 minutes) Kate Hudson plays Molly, who has just married one of her dad's employees, Carl (Matt Dillon). Carl's best friend, Dupree (Owen Wilson), moves in with the newlyweds until he gets back on his feet. A series of slapstick, incendiary and raunchy high jinks ensues as the interloper insinuates himself ever into his hosts' lives. Artistically, the movie is a mess. Technically, it's an abomination. Spiritually, it's a void. (AH)

Television

ON TV THIS WEEKEND

THE Z LIST
THE MINOR ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF JACKIE WOODMAN (Fri., 11 p.m., IFC) follows the shenanigans of two best friends at the bottom of Hollywood's pecking order—Jackie (Laura Kightlinger) and Tara (Nicholle Tom). For all of its low-wattage Hollywood glitz, it's really about friendship.

ARE YOU SURE THIS IS ABOUT MEERKATS AND NOT HUMANS?
MEERKAT MANOR (Fri., 8 p.m., Animal Planet) When Flower gives birth to a new litter, the hapless males left in charge prove careless and put the family in danger.

THAT SOUNDS DIRTY
A grateful woman (Jaime Pressly) wants to thank Ed personally for saving her father on LAS VEGAS (Fri., 9 p.m., NBC).

A BUSHEL OF PECK
TCM spends the entire day with the films of Gregory Peck, including TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD (Fri., 11:45 a.m.). Change the channel to watch Peck take on Satan's spawn in the 1976 shocker THE OMEN (8 p.m., Fox Movie Channel).

'IT HAS TARRY NOTES ...'
FEASTING ON ASPHALT (Sat., 9 p.m., Food) Another easy ride through the culinary back roads of the American South, feasting on all things pork and shaking the hands of a celebrated colonel. A repeat of last week's "Asphalt" (8 p.m.) precedes this installment.

EX AND WHY? Bickering former lovers make "Much Ado About Nothing."

QUIT BOGARTING THE REMOTE
A&E repeats the 2000 series "Hooked: Illegal Drugs and How They Got That Way" Saturday night, beginning with a survey history of COCAINE (8 p.m.), OPIUM, MORPHINE AND HEROIN (9 p.m.) and LSD, ECSTASY AND RAVES (10 p.m.) follow.

MEET THE ONLY MAN NOT AFRAID OF PLAID WALLPAPER
DESIGNING BLIND (Sun., 5 p.m., A&E) Sightless interior decorator Eric Brun-Sanglard and host Alexandra Hedison demonstrate Eric's unique perspective on colors, textures and arrangements.

THOU ART LOOKING HOT TODAY
SHAKESPEARE-TOLD (Sun., 7 p.m., BBC America) puts a modern spin on his comedies and tragedies. Tonight's "Much Ado

BITING METAL: Fans of the fictional Dethklok will do anything to see their heroes.

About Nothing" takes place in the newsroom of a regional BBC station, where bickering co-anchors Benedick (Damien Lewis) and Beatrice (Sarah Parish) are ex-lovers, and the loathing is mutual.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE — OOPS, IT IS
THREE MOONS OVER MILFORD (Sun., 8 p.m., Family) After a cosmic explosion splits the moon into three chunks, experts believe one of them will collide with Earth. Faced with this, the residents of the affluent village of Milford decide to "seize the day" in the strangest ways.

THE KLOK IS TICKING
METALCALYPSE (Sun., 11:45 p.m., Cartoon Network) In this send-up of headbanger culture, the devoted and demented fans of legendary metal band Dethklok endure pain, mutilation and death to attend their concerts—even a performance at the Arctic Circle that consists of a coffee jingle. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Stretch of Malibu road has had many brushes with fame

Mel Gibson is only the latest celebrity to find trouble on an infamous stretch of the scenic Pacific Coast Highway.

A wild-eyed Nick Nolte was immortalized in a 2002 mug shot taken after he was caught weaving along the road under the influence of the drug GHB. Robert Downey Jr. was taken into custody in 1996 after authorities stopped him for speeding on the winding, beach-side highway and found cocaine, heroin and a pistol in his car.

With a huge number of celebrity homes nearby and murderously twisty terrain, the PCH, as it is known, has ensnared more than its share of superstars. Filled with blind spots and hairpin curves wrapped around some of the most beautifully distracting scenery in the country, the PCH has been called an accident waiting to happen.

"At best, stone-cold sober, and not fatigued and at 2:30 a.m., it is a difficult road to drive," said Arnold G. York, publisher of the local newspaper, The Malibu Times. "No traffic engineer in his right mind would have designed it this way."

Drivers are supposed to slow to 45 mph through Malibu but — except during rush-hour traffic jams when they have no choice — few ever do.

Not that alcohol, drugs or even bad driving is necessarily involved when a celebrity gets in trouble along Malibu's main drag.

Actor and singer Ben Vereen was struck by a Chevrolet Suburban in June 1993 when he tried to cross the highway in the dark as he walked home from a friend's house. He was badly hurt, but made a full recovery.

Last December, Drake Bell of the hit teen TV show "Drake & Josh" suffered a broken jaw, broken neck and had seven teeth knocked out when his vintage Ford Mustang was struck by another vehicle as he waited to make a left turn from PCH onto another street.

"I was hit head-on at 60 miles per hour while I was at a dead stop," the 20-year-old Bell, who also recovered, told The Associated Press recently.

Authorities say Gibson was traveling at 87 mph, with a bottle of tequila in the car, when his 2006 Lexus LS 430 was stopped Friday morning at 2:36 a.m.

The highway is often pitch dark when people race through the area at night. During the day, with the sparkling Pacific Ocean to the west and canyons dotted with multimillion-dollar mansions to the east, there is much to gawk at.

As a result, Hollywood loves PCH. It is a favorite location for television commercials and it was the lead player in the James Garner series "The Rockford Files." Before that, America saw it in the 1960s "Beach Party" movies starring Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello.

Almost equally well-known are the sites of some of the highway's more infamous accidents. Many tourists and locals alike can point out where actresses Shannen Doherty and Bridget Fonda survived traffic accidents.

The highway has even turned at least one person into a celebrity.

Bo Stefan Eriksson, now known in Malibu as the "Ferrari Guy," was driving a rare Ferrari Enzo at 162 mph — about twice as fast as Gibson was going — when he lost control of it one morning last February. He hit a power pole and destroyed a vehicle valued at $1.5 million.

"That happened right outside where we live," said 17-year-old Malibu resident Thrux Mehrotra.

Chickens on a Hot Sod Roof

HEAT | Local utility officials are nervously eyeing the power grid as the area's steamy temperatures increase demands for electricity. But one Shaw resident isn't waiting for the grid to blow. Blogger Mari of In Shaw (INSHAW.COM/BLOG) hopes to find a long-term energy-saving solution for the house she's remodeling. Unfortunately, it won't come in the form of a green roof:

"My house is too old, too small, and too structurally screwed up. Yes, I did contact D.C. Greenworks. That's where the too-old part comes in. My roof is not green roof-ready and they had no guidance for me. I contacted another resident, Emily, and she was told by a green design company that for small, flat-roof homes, a green roof wasn't worth it."

That doesn't augur well for green efforts to reduce the city's energy footprint, but Mari's commenters aren't giving up hope yet — their suggestions include everything from federally deductible solar panels to rooftop sod complete with prairie chickens. Chickens on a hot sod roof? Just be sure to mind the city government's pet safety tips.

'Talk to Me'

Writer/director KASI LEMMONS was online Thursday at washingtonpost.com to discuss her new movie, "Talk to Me," based on the life of former D.C. radio host and activist "Petey" Greene.

How did Mr. Greene's time in prison affect his later work? Did he make plans in prison and work toward them while in prison or was what happened after prison mostly independent of all that?

No, what happened in prison is very important. It's in prison that he became a disc jockey. He started doing the broadcasts at Lorton and he became very good at it and he was a very popular prison DJ. So when he came out of prison, he took that skill with him and expanded on it.

As a lifelong Washington area resident, I'm concerned about the "look" of your film. Many of the structures and landmarks that were around during the '60s and '70s no longer exist. How will your film compensate for those losses?

We looked at a lot of documentary footage and matched it as best we could. It helped a lot that my production designer spends half of his time in D.C., and so he's very familiar with the city. He owns houses there and he's very detail-oriented, so he made sure that the places we photographed really resembled the places in D.C. in the '60s and '70s.

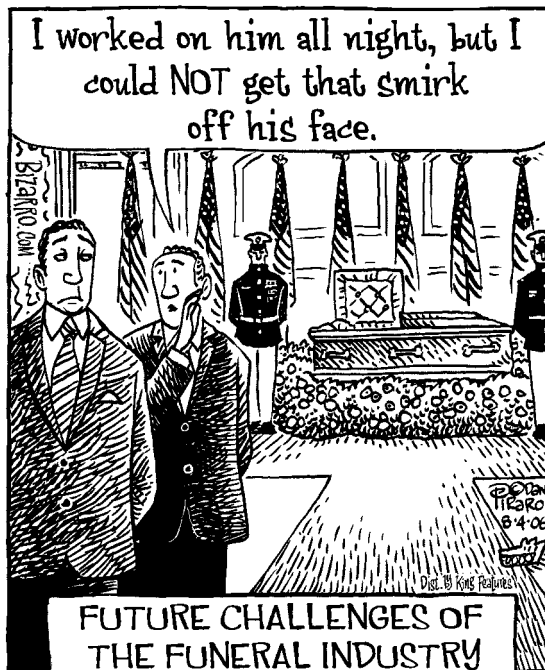

In a Washington Post article, you are quoted as saying that as a black woman, you know black men better than they know themselves. What do you mean by that?

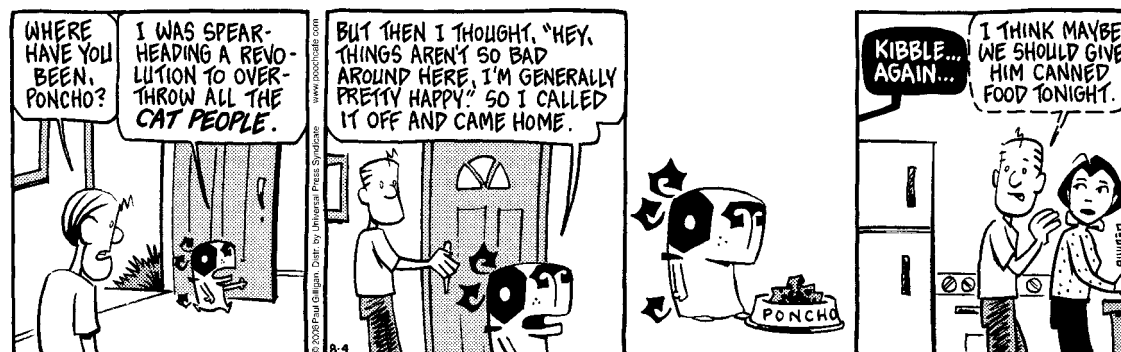

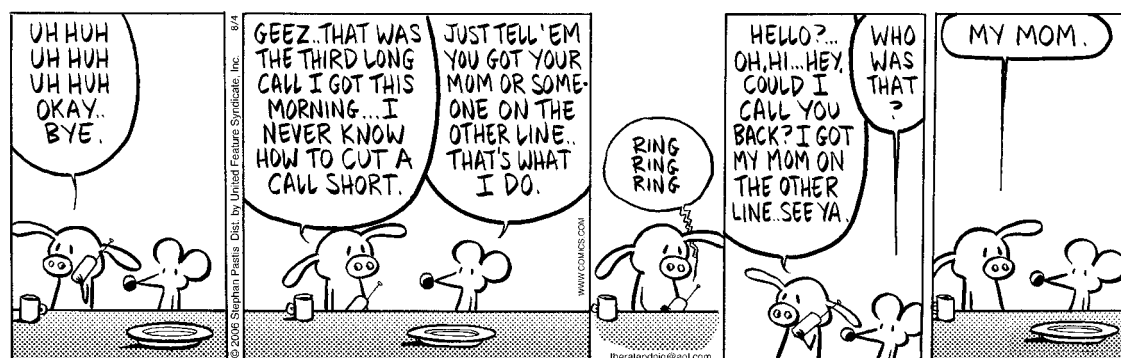

That was what I said in trying to get the job. It was one of the lines I used to promote myself as the director. I do believe that it's true. I think that men, in general, shy away from or are afraid of revealing their vulnerabilities and women who love men see them for the fabulous, delicate creatures that they are and aren't so afraid of exposing their vulnerabilities. I've often thought that good writers write more revealingly about the opposite sex, maybe because it's less personal.

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're in the spotlight yet again — but you'll be in rare form, eager to please yourself rather than your critics. You're more in touch.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Listen to what others are saying, and you'll realize just how valid your own ideas are and will be — now and in the days and weeks to come.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) A disagreement is bound to broaden the rift between you and a friend — unless you are willing to take the first step toward reconciliation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Though you may be staring straight into the jaws of defeat, you can still muster the strength you need to put in a top-notch performance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) When you find yourself lost in he said/she said, take the time to step out of the situation and re-establish a healthy perspective.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Two wrongs still don't make a right, as you should learn in no uncertain terms. It's time to expect only the best from yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) What others consider tacky, you are likely to prize as quite stylish and desirable. Remember, after all: to each his own.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You'll get a valuable inside look at something you must come to understand better, especially if you are to progress at the current rapid pace.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Have you tried that familiar method of getting to the truth lately? It's quite likely it will yield remarkable results.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Financial commitments must not be overlooked. Others are expecting you to come through on schedule, and be prepared to do so.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may be quite irascible and argumentative throughout the day until someone gives you an honest earful and turns you around.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You don't want to see your current plans go up in smoke, so you had better do all you can to prevent any mishaps, errors or accidents.

New Metro Cars a 'Travesty'

IT'S UNFORTUNATE that those of us who have been staunch supporters of Metro since its inception are faced with less seating ("New Metrorail Cars Unveiled," Aug. 1), more annoying announcements about the doors closing and less affinity for the daily commuters. What can I say that you've not already heard? The new designs are a travesty. It stands to reason that none of the board members is a regular Metro rider, or these new designs wouldn't stand a chance. Do you think they could start empathizing with the riders instead of finding new ways to line Metro's pockets?

Rapper Arbitrarily Unbalances News Cycle, Confuses Everyone

LUDACRIS has lopped off the long braids that have been his trademark for nearly a decade — and not because of the heat. The rapper says his new, short hairdo — a "shadow fade" — was a "spur-of-the-moment kind of thing." He acknowledges that after years of wearing braids or cornrows, he'd simply run out of new styles. ■ Three gorgeous blondes all dating an 80-year-old sounds icky, but somehow the gals on the E! hit "The Girls Next Door" make dating Hugh Hefner seem mostly wholesome — even if they are wont to go bare in a magazine. They've returned for season two, but you can review their prior hijinks on DVD ($30) and see more of 'em in the September issue of Playboy.

Do you like Hef's pajamas?

K: I like when he surprises us with different colors. This Sunday he had these crazy purple ones.

How do you like to dress?

H: I love to dress up formal, very retro, with jewelry.

K: I don't like dressing up, although I like when I have to and I look in the mirror and I say, "Damn, I look good." But if I didn't go out, I'd dress sporty in Nikes and a hat. I don't shop on Rodeo and I'll never shop on Rodeo.

B: For me, I'm pretty girly. I like to look cute in polka dots and pink.

Your outfits for Hef's birthday party were amazing. Where did you get that peacock thing, Holly?

H: Trashy Lingerie made the base. I decorated it with rhinestones and I picked out all of the fabrics, so I designed it myself.

You've also designed a jewelry line?

H: It just launched at Kitsons last Saturday. I love Playboy jewelry, but I was inspired to make something else.

Do you want to start doing this professionally?

H: I don't necessarily want to be a designer. I have many things I want to do. I want to be a Guess model.

TV STARS, COVER GIRLS, HEF'S GIRLFRIENDS

OK, back to Hef's party. What makes a perfect party to you?

H: It's the mix of people. People you know well and people you'd like to get to know.

K: Rappers and athletes. I like music parties. Like, we had 3 Six Mafia for Hef's party.

But what about party planning?

K: I requested a song. That's all I had to do.

B: Halloween's my favorite party, but everyone on staff all have jobs predesignated, so it's hard to get involved. We can throw a small party. Like, Holly and I hosted a pumpkin-carving party. But we work with staff on moving stuff around and the food.

You never cook for the parties?

B: It's nice to have the staff at our disposal. But we can get in there late at night.

I don't believe you're snacking late at night. How do all of you keep your figures?

K: You need to keep moving. Don't just sit on your ass on MySpace all day. VICKY HALLETT (EXPRESS)

LABELMAKERS HAVEN'T KEPT UP with the rest of technology. As phones and computers got tinier, these devices stayed clunky and analog. The digital Dymo Personal LabelMaker LetraTag Plus ($50, global.dymo.com) is light-years ahead of its peers, with a fairly crisp LCD display and easy-to-thumb buttons. There are scores of rudimentary graphics for the embellishment freaks (hello, scrapbookers!), and label tapes come in several tantalizing flavors, including magnetic and iron-on.

CAN BLUEBERRY PIE be waist-enhancing instead of waist-expanding? Yes, says D.C. designer Jon Wye, whose latest belt buckle, cast in silver pewter and adorned with enamel, summons visions of retro-diner dessert cases and church suppers. ANSWERS FROM THE SHOEBLOGGER

My stepfather is in despair because of his big feet. He says he loves shoes, but he cannot find a stylish, comfortable pair that are both a size 14 and "medium wide." Please help! — TRACIE

■ Manolo says, the Manolo he receives each month many dozens of the e-mails from the desperate women who have giant feet. However, this, it is the first time the Manolo can recall the letter asking the Manolo to help the man with the large feet.

It is the nearly universal truism that the mens take great pride in the size of the feet, as with other body parts that shall remain unnamed, the bigger the better, and indeed the Manolo himself, he has always been happy to say that he wears the manly size 11.

The correct solution to any problem with the foot size it is the save the moneys and have the shoes custom-made. However, this, it is not always possible. Thus the Manolo would tell the stepfather of the Tracie to do what the professional athletes do and consider the Bruno Magli. There was the reason why the O.J. Simpson shod his own size-12 feet with the shoes of the Bruno Magli.

Here is the Magonza ($329, zappos.com), the classic and handsome moccasin-toe loafer, available up to the size 15 in the EEE widths.

@ Ask the Manolo a question at manolo@shoeblogs.com. Visit the Manolo at shoeblogs.com.

Finding Knobs And Furniture

decor
Diva

Q I'm redoing my kitchen with French-country cabinets. But the drawer knobs I see are icky! Where do I find nice ones?

Glass handles, forged iron pulls, stone knobs — there are more varieties of cabinet hardware now than things to hide in drawers. Two places with good prices and selection: EXPO Design Center (expo.com) and The Great Indoors (thegreatindoors.com).

To get something oomphy, like mismatched knobs for a Paris flea market look, try Anthropologie (anthropologie.com) for cool styles like flower-shaped knobs ($12) and fossil knobs ($20-$24). Good Web sites: knoboutlet.com, knobshingesandmore.com and thehardwarehut.com.

Just as buckles and rivets embellish trendy belts and shoes, hardware adds bling to many things besides cabinets. Trim a chair with nail heads. Texturize a wall with rivets. Update a chest with pewter pulls or turn an armoire shabby chic with colored glass knobs.

Q Relatives willed me beds and a roommate left me a bookcase. I want to buy some new furniture that will make my place look better, but I don't know how to start.

First decide what to keep and what to dump. If you like that bed and that bookcase, take photos of them and jot down dimensions. Make a list of things to buy — a hipper sofa, a smaller coffee table? — and determine the minimum and maximum sizes those items could be.

Pre-shopping spree, put together swatches of your fabrics, paint chips and the furniture pics. Also good: a tape measure and a camera.

When you find something you like that has the right dimensions, take out your photos and swatches and look at everything together. Are styles consistent? Are the colors right? If you still aren't sure, snap another picture of your intended purchase and take it home to look at in context. After that, if you think that wing chair/cowhide rug/Old Masters painting works with your colors, style and living space, get out your credit card and pull the trigger!

✱ BY INVITATION ONLY: UPCOMING WEDDINGS & UNIONS

Catherine Choe, Supapong Siris

Catherine, 23, is a personal banker at Citibank. Soup, 32, is a process engineer at Nutravail Technologies. They will live in Brambleton, Va.

- The Main Event: An evening wedding in Reston for 100 guests on Oct. 14. Catherine's high-school youth group leader will officiate.

■ Stupidest Fight: "What to put on the registry," said Catherine.

■ When He Knew: "One day, we were supposed to go out, but she had to cancel because her dad was sick. That was when I realized how important family is to her, and how she fit what I want in a wife," said Soup.

■ Celebrating Heritage: "We plan on having wooden ducks at the ceremony, according to Korean tradition. Ducks find one mate and stay together forever."

■ With an Unlimited Budget ... "We would fly all our relatives from Korea and Thailand here," said Soup.

"Even when I was not looking my best, he took care of me."

Nadia Smiecinska, Patrick Zoder

- How They Met: During their junior year at the University of San Francisco, when they were both resident advisors.
- First Date: "I asked her out to a San Francisco Symphony concert, but had to ask twice because the first time she said she was busy," said Patrick.

■ How She Proposed: "I spontaneously decided to propose in a bookstore on a rainy summer day. As we were going through travel magazines, I just popped the question," said Nadia. "It was great because he never expected it to come right when it did."

■ Their Song: "Your Song" by Elton

John. "The movie 'Moulin Rouge' came out around the time we started dating, and the song seemed to always play when we were together," said Nadia.

Priciest Diet Coke Ever

"Indians don't know how to have small weddings," said CHHAYA MALIK, who is set to marry SAMEER BHALOTRA in San Jose, Calif., on Sept. 3. While the traditional Punjabi ceremony will be held in Chhaya's parents' backyard with only family in attendance, nearly 400 guests will attend the American-style reception. "Indian weddings are full of family traditions," said Chhaya. "My sisters are charged with the responsibility to steal Sameer's shoes, and Sameer's family must 'protect' them." If his shoes are stolen, he has to pay each sister to get them back.

The couple met multiple times over two years, but only started dating after running into each other at a party. Their first date was a Berkeley versus USC basketball game, where they shared a pretzel and a Diet Coke. "I hate Diet Coke," said Sameer. Still, "I knew months after we started dating that she was it," he said. He proposed at the top of Yosemite Falls.

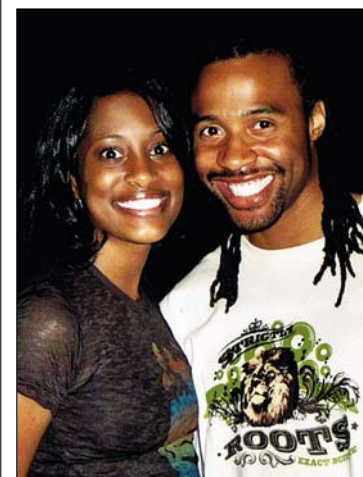

Chhaya, 29, is an attorney. Sameer, 30, is an engineer. They live in Arlington.

■ Stupidest Fight: "I didn't honk at a car in front of us that Nadia thought needed to be made aware of our displeasure ... by the time the person disappeared in traffic, we were yelling at each other louder than any car horn," said Patrick.

■ When He Knew: "When I could confidently plan for our future without any fear of us breaking up," said Patrick.

■ The Dress: "A white, mermaid-silhouette, delicately embroidered dress with no veil and only a flower in my hair."

■ Celebrating Heritage: To honor Patrick's background, their second dance will be an Austrian waltz.

Kyana Bundy, Robert Evans III

Kyana, 27, is a financial specialist at the Department of Labor. Robert, 27, works in law enforcement and psychiatric rehabilitation. They will live in Temple Hills, Md.

■ The Main Event: A black-tie wedding for 250 guests in Washington on Aug. 12.

■ Honeymoon: Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, for a week.

■ How They Met: At Towson University, though they didn't date until after graduation.

■ First Impressions: "I found my queen!" said Robert. "He was charismatic, attractive, intriguing and charming," said Kyana.

■ First Date: Dinner at Timbuktu to celebrate Robert's birthday.

Their song is "So High" by John Legend. "The words are a perfect fit," said Kyana.

■ Pet Names: "I'll never tell," said Robert.

■ How He Proposed: On New Year's Day. Kyana awoke to breakfast in bed, after which Rob whisked her off to a day spa for some pampering. Lunch at Timbuktu followed, then (after a break to change clothes), a dinner cruise on the Potomac. The day ended in a candlelit hotel room, where Rob presented Kyana with a scrapbook of their years together — and a proposal.

■ Mmm, Cake: Lemon and vanilla layers with cream-cheese icing.

How to Play

The rules of Samurai Sudoku are the same as in the popular Sudoku puzzles that appear in Express and The Washington Post.

As with standard Sudoku, the Samurai version requires no math, just logic, reasoning ... and an iron will. The goal is to fill in each column, row and 3x3 box with the digits 1 through 9 without repeating any. The twist in Samurai Sudoku is that the digits that appear in the overlapping boxes must work for both puzzles.

A piece of advice to get you started: Don't focus on completing one grid at a time. Keep the whole puzzle in mind as you go, because filling in a number in one grid could give you clues to another. As always, there's only one solution, which will appear in next week's edition of Weekend Styles.

 Can't get enough Sudoku? Find a standard Sudoku puzzle in the Comics section of the Post every Sunday and in the Style section every Monday through Saturday.
